

A second large Canadian paper-maker has announced it is boosting the price of newsprint by $10 a ton. Abitibi Power & Paper Co., Ltd., effective November 1 is increasing the New York delivered price from $100 a ton to $110.

The trend was established last week when Powell River Co. Ltd., also of Canada, made the first announcement.

Abitibi is one of the big guns in the Canadian paper industry, and its price action causes American newspapers to brace themselves for a cross-the-board increase by the first of the year.

When this actually comes off it means that the delivered price of newsprint to Arkansas newspapers in carload lots under mill contract will be raised from $104 to $114 per ton. The Star, on the basis of the first nine months' consumption, will use more than 75 tons of newsprint in 1950 — so the Canadian gouge will figure around $750 a year for small newspapers, and many thousands of dollars a year for the Little Rock papers.

We have reason to be resentful. This morning's Wall Street Journal quotes one of the major paper-makers, St. Regis Paper company, as earning $7,003,924 the first nine months of this year, as compared to $3,284,394 for the same period last year. A manufacturer doubles his profit in one year — and practically all paper-makers' earnings are up — and still the price of the commodity is increased.

At the bottom of the 1929-33 panic newsprint delivered in Hope in carload lots for $41 a ton domestic, $39 a ton import (Norwegian). That was too low, as was everything else. But newsprint went to $104 a ton in the postwar period and stayed there, which was too high — the increase being more than the general rise in commodity prices.

As you know, The Star does not actually get its newsprint from Canada. We hold a charter contract (1940) with the first Southern pine newsprint mill, Southland, at Lufkin, Texas. But that merely assures us a supply. All newsprint contracts stipulate that the price shall be governed by the general level of prices posted by Canadian and U. S. Great Lakes paper-makers. This is designed to stabilize the industry and avoid disastrous price-cutting in a business whose manufacturing plants run to 25 or 30 million dollars apiece.

Stabilization is all right until it crosses international boundaries. What's building up in the U. S. A. is a publisher resentment against Canadians who charge all the traffic will bear simply because 80 per cent of all the newsprint that the United States uses is Canadian.

Canadian action guarantees that the trend to return newsprint manufacture to the U. S. A. — begun with the original pine mill at Lufkin and the second mill at Coosa Pines, Ala. — will be expanded until the American industry can afford to stand on its own feet and risk a price quarrel with its avaricious northern neighbors.

Our congress is looking into the matter of the Canadian monopoly — but when what you need is more mills lawyers aren't much help.

U. S. to Send Light Bombers to Indo China

Washington, Oct. 19 — (UP) — The United States plans to send a squadron of B-25 light bombers to Indo China by the end of the year, government officials disclosed today.

Other informants said the United States is starting a complete review of its military, economic and political policies towards Indo China to find new ways to bolster French and Viet Namese troops being pushed back by Communist forces.

The policy review grew out of the Wake Island conference between President Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur. It was said the chief executive and the supreme Allied commander agreed on the necessity of speeding U. S. arms to the new battle area.

The squadron of about 15 bombers will be flown to Indo China from reconditioning bases in the United States. Another squadron may be sent if the war in Korea permits. America pilots would not fly them in combat.

Air force officials said B-25's are used in this country primarily for training purposes. The planes would have to be fitted with light equipment and overhauled before they are sent to the Far East. French embassy officials said they are needed to destroy Communist concentrations of troops and supplies.

Details of the plan were revealed after Saigon dispatches said light bombers would be flown from Korea within 10 days.

Embassy officials denied that the planes would be sent from Korea, or that they could be delivered in such a short time. These officials said, however, that 40 F-6F fighter planes loaded aboard the French aircraft carrier Dixmude at San Francisco several weeks ago are scheduled to arrive at Saigon in a "few days."

Russia Demands Position on Peace Patrols

Lake Success, Oct. 19 — (P) — Diplomats of seven nations met behind locked doors today to discuss Russia's demand to serve on the peace patrols set up under the United Nations' new anti-aggression program.

They were summoned by America's John Foster Dulles, who guided the plan originally outlined by Secretary of State Dean Acheson's eventual victory.

Gathered with Dulles in the room sealed off by blue-uniformed guards were representatives of Britain, Canada, France, Turkey, the Philippines and Uruguay. They were co-sponsors of the program.

The plan, which puts teeth in U. N. efforts to maintain peace, was adopted overwhelmingly by the 60 nation political committee in a paragraph by paragraph vote last night.

Besides the peace patrols — to rove areas of tension and report possible threats to peace — it provides for emergency sessions of the veto-free general assembly a 20-hour notice whenever the security council is hamstrung by the Russian veto. It calls on member nations to earmark units of their armed forces for service when either the security council or the general assembly calls for a survey of what forces will be available.

Delegates agree its the most important step the U. N. has taken forward since that body was formed in 1945.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky fought the plan bitterly. He said it was designed to "wipe out" the security council where Russia has the veto, and thus was contrary to the United Nations' charter. In that document the council is given primary responsibility for maintaining international peace and security.

When Vishinsky saw that almost all the non-Soviet world was in favor of the American proposals, he demanded that the 14-man peace patrols include representatives of the five big powers.

In this list he included Communist China, as well as Russia, the United States, Britain and France. Dulles said the sponsors would meet to discuss this, but insisted that, if it were reported, the post would go to the Chinese representative recognized by a majority of the U. N. — that is Nationalist China.

Questions 'Expenses' of Bell System

Little Rock, Oct. 19 — (P) — The Arkansas Public service commission has ruled Southwest Bell Telephone company won't be required to itemize its uncollectible accounts.

Little Rock City Attorney T. J. Gentry made the request yesterday during cross examination of a company witness in hearing of Southwest Bell's application for $4,620,000 annual rate increases in Arkansas.

Gentry said detailed analysis of such accounts might "show that certain items listed as uncollectible are not so in fact, but were listed that way for other reasons."

Gentry asked for an item-by-item breakdown of accounts written off as uncollectible in 1948, 1949, and 1950 — all election years.

The witness, R. L. Bankson, the company's commercial manager for Arkansas, testified that the information sought would involve the checking of "hundreds of items."

PSC Chairman Scott Wood rejected Gentry's request.

Earlier, Gentry, representing municipalities opposing the rate increase, had asked Bankson where in the company's books political contributions were listed. Bankson replied there were no such contributions.

Gentry also wanted to know about legal expenses, declaring money listed as legal fees was paid "for other purposes to persons who never open a 'law book'."

This assertion was denied by company attorney Blake Downie.

It was agreed that a later company witness would furnish detailed information on the $48,000 listed as legal expense for the 12 months ended last May 31.

County Teachers to Meet Oct. 24 at Yerger

The Yerger High School lunchroom will be scene of a dinner meeting at 6 p. m. October 24 for the teachers of Hempstead County. A feature of the program will be a panel discussion of school problems and community singing. All teachers of the county are urged to attend.

Prescott Youth Spent 6 Days Behind Enemy Lines

Pfc. Dickie Murphy, 22-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Murphy of Prescott recently wrote his folks about spending six days behind enemy lines in Korea.

He and a buddy were captured when the Reds almost wiped out their company. The Reds told them they were going to be killed, but before the execution, American artillery started shelling the area. The men fell into a rice paddy and escaped during the night but had to remain in hiding for six days before they were found by marines.

Pfc. Murphy received a small shrapnel wound. He is now in a hospital in Japan. He left the states in July and had been in Korea two weeks when he was captured.

Agreement on Formosa Brings Speculation

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Oct. 19 (P) — The report that President Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur have reached agreement on the Formosa issue opened anew today the question: To what extent will the United States try to keep Formosa, now held by the Chinese Nationalists, from falling into the hands of the Chinese Communists?

Up to the time of the Truman MacArthur conference on Wake Island last Sunday, there was considerable evidence that the two men did not see eye to eye. MacArthur clearly favored a determined policy to keep Formosa permanently out of Communist control.

Mr. Truman favored neutralizing the island during the Korean war, and thereafter settling its status peacefully through the United Nations.

The key to the reported agreement may be this: although he seeks a peaceful solution in accord with other friendly nations, the President may have no intention of letting that solution take the form of handing Formosa over to the Chinese Reds.

That is, the reported agreement may have taken the form of an assurance by Mr. Truman to MacArthur that his policies, developing within the U. N. are aimed at permanently neutralizing the island.

High pentagon officials who reported anonymously yesterday that the two men had agreed to the Formosa issue did not say how or in what degree the differences as they formerly appeared on the record had been resolved.

These officials stipulated that they not be named. This brought a prompt protest from Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) about "second hand leaks."

In a statement distributed by the Republican national committee, Knowland said "these partial facts may or may not express accurately the understanding" about Formosa.

He demanded that the full text of the anonymous news conference notes be cabled to MacArthur, presumably for checking against his understanding. Knowland noted that the officials who gave out word of the reported Formosa agreement were not actually present at the time, since they said Mr. Truman and the general discussed the issue when they were alone.

In Tokyo, informed sources said MacArthur has not altered his views. They said Formosa was not involved in any policy discussions at Wake.

Selective Cutting Is Profitable

A pulpwood thinning, believed to be the first commercial cutting of a planted pine forest in Hempstead County, was completed this week on the 11-year old plantation of Ollie LeGrand, near Hope. Purpose of the thinning was to remove only enough trees to leave the remaining trees spaced far enough apart to grow the greatest amount of high quality wood, yet the thinning yielded 22 cords from five acres. Value of the standing trees marked for cutting was $51.00, while the value of the pulpwood cut and stacked in the woods was $153.00.

The seedlings were planted in 1939 as part of the conservation program planned with the Terre Rouge-Bodcaw Soil Conservation District.

The trees cut this year were selected and marked by Mr. LeGrand with the assistance of Soil Conservationists Herbert Arnold and Dave Griffin. The better trees, averaging five to six inches in diameter, were left at a distance of 10 to 12 feet apart. The next thinning, to be made in five years, should yield some sawlogs, in addition to pulpwood or posts, according to Forester R. E. Nelson.

Cutting was done under the supervision of Contractor Harold Henderson, who is an ardent conservationist, and practices selective cutting.

Cotton Becomes a Touchy Subject to Officials Who Refuse to Mention Subject

Washington, Oct. 19 — (P) — Cotton has become a touchy subject among government farm officials. They are reluctant even to mention the crop lest what they say sends prices flying skyward or plunging downward in a abnormally sensitive market where hundreds of millions of dollars are invested.

This situation has developed because the 1950 crop fell far short of needs and the agriculture department's production goal, and because the ticklish international situation has caused a boom in demand of the giver.

Acting to conserve supplies for this country and to stabilize sharply advancing prices, Secretary Brannan last week issued an order limiting exports for the eight-month period, ending March 31. This action was followed by a break in prices, and sharp protests from cotton growers and southern lawmakers.

The latter contended that Brannan was treating growers unfairly by causing prices to go down at harvest time.

In recent days, the department has received an abnormal number of telephone calls pleading and insisting that it either lift the export restriction or modify it to increase export allowances.

Meanwhile, the cotton market has been putting on a teeter-totter act.

Reports and rumors circulated that Brannan was preparing to amend his order right away to permit larger exports. Prices shot up, on the theory that the action would provide a bigger market resulting further shrinkage in the nation's tight supplies.

When the amendment failed to materialize, prices tumbled again. They bounced up again on reports that Brannan had promised a congressman that he would boost the export quota.

Asked for comment on reports that a revision of the quota was imminent, officials pleaded that they not be pressed for an answer. They explained that if they indicated that some type of action was in the works it would be interpreted by cotton traders and speculators that the quota was to be boosted, and a tip to buy in expectation of higher prices.

School Carnival Halloween Free to All

It will be a big day for Oglesby, Garland, Paisley and Brookwood schools Halloween when the students present a combined carnival in the Coliseum at Fair park.

The carnival this year is an undertaking of the Parent Teachers Association and all proceeds will be used to benefit children in all four schools.

This year there will be no admission charge. The carnival starts promptly at 6 p. m. and hot dogs, sandwiches, homemade pies, cakes, coffee and cold drinks will be served. Families are urged to come early and eat their supper.

A masquerade parade starts the program and prizes will be awarded to the youngsters wearing the silliest, the cleverest and scariest costumes. The Coliseum will be lined with all kinds of side shows that go to make up a carnival.

As an added precaution, Boy Scouts will patrol the grounds to insure safety of cars and bicycles.

The affair is designed to furnish fun for the whole family and there could be no better way to enjoy a safe and sane Halloween and at the same time benefit school children.

The War Takes a Strange Turn for the Better—Now We Have Too Much Equipment

By TOM LAMBERT
(For Hal Boyle)
With U. S. Forces in Red Korea — (P) — It was a quiet sunny afternoon.

An autumn breeze tugged at scrawny bolls of cotton in the fields. Dry brown cornstalks crackled like tin.

Jeeps chugged lazily along the road. Dust clouds drifted skyward in their wake.

It was one of those brief, bright respites in war — a time for planning the next move. And the U. S. First cavalry division's Seventh regiment — famed since the days of General Custer — was hatching an attack.

Two Killed, 15 Injured in Train Wreck

Oneida, N. Y., Oct. 19 — (P) — The New York Central railroad's "North Star" express, streaking westward in the darkness, was violently derailed here early today at a cost of two lives and 15 injured.

The fleet passenger train, roaring through this Central New York flatland at a 75-mile-an-hour clip, hurled the rails in the heart of Oneida. A steel freight-car door that had fallen in the path of the limited was blamed for the wreck.

The engineer and fireman were killed.

None of the injured was reported in serious condition.

The steam locomotive and all 11 cars of the Flyer plunged off the tracks and tore up 500 yards of the Central's four-track main line, which hugs the north bank of the New York state barge canal.

Traffic was re-routed over the Central's parallel west shore railroad on the other side of the canal.

The North Star, was en route from New York to Toronto and Cleveland.

Little Opposition as Allies Drive Deep Into Heart of Red Capital

Sino Reds Said to Be Joining Indo China Fight

Hongkong, Oct. 19 — (UP) — A wholly-unconfirmed Chinese report said today that 15,000 Chinese Communist troops have crossed into Indo China to join Ho Chi Minh's rebel army in driving the French back toward Hanoi.

The report said the arrival of the Chinese Reds in Indo China was responsible in part for France's abandonment of all but one of its Chinese border fortresses guarding the invasion road to Hanoi, capital of the French-sponsored Vietnam state.

Allied intelligence quarters were skeptical of the border crossing report pending supporting evidence. But if it proves true, it presumably would mean Communist China's open intervention in a war involving one of the big three Western powers — France.

I also touched off speculation whether the United States would take any action to help the French and the Vietnam republic headed by Emperor Bao Dai fight Moscovite-trained Ho and his Communist Vietminh army.

(A Washington dispatch reported that the United States intends to send a squadron of B-25 light bombers to Indo China before the end of the year. But that American pilots would not fly the planes in combat.)

The Chinese report of the border crossing was contained in a dispatch from Yunging in southern Kwangsi province, directly opposite the Indo Chinese border.

It said the Chinese troops were well equipped with machine-guns and light artillery. On their arrival in Indo China, it said, they announced they had come to help the people of Vietnam in their "war in liberation against the imperialists."

The dispatch did not say whether the Chinese troops had taken part in combat yet.

Triple Crash Puzzling to U. S. Airforce

Washington, Oct. 19 — (P) — The search resumed today for two of three air force F-86 jet fighter planes which crashed minutes apart yesterday in wooded country 35 miles northwest of here. Cause of the triple crash remained a mystery.

Wreckage of the third craft was found near Nokesville, Va. Its pilot, Luther C. Barcus, Jr., of Spring Lake, N. J., suffered a broken leg and lacerations.

He told of seeing the other two planes spinning toward the earth just before his own machine went into a mystifying spin. It skidded after reaching earth.

Air force officials were unable immediately to account for the freak triple crash. Lt. Joseph Ket, public relations officer at nearby Andrews Field, Md., said there was no collision and the planes had not been aloft long enough to run out of fuel.

"Whatever it was," he said, "the same thing must have happened to all three."

Ket declined to speculate on the possibility of sabotage. However, he said, an official investigation could be expected to consider all possibilities.

The three planes took off from Andrews field at 11 a. m. EST the weather bureau reported a 500-foot ceiling and forward visibility of two and one-quarter miles with fog and smoke.

Barcus radioed before his plane went out of control that the other machines apparently plunged into the Potomac river or one of its tributaries.

Search planes, a helicopter and ground parties combed the wooded hills between here and the Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia until dark last night. Then the hunt was called off until today.

Names of the two missing pilots were withheld until their families were notified. All three fliers were members of the 335th interceptor fighter squadron.

The air force said Barcus qualified last May as a jet pilot after previous service in the navy.

Minor Accident

Automobiles driven by James Lauterback and Dale Aaron collided early this morning on South Main in front of the Julia Chester Hospital. Both cars suffered minor damage.

Calls for Probe of Shipments to Red China

Washington, Oct. 19 — (P) — Accused by world leaders (including the United States) of supplying the Red Chinese with strategic goods, the U. S. Commerce department today called for a probe of shipments to Red China.

Officials of the department and commerce department called for questioning about lightly export regulations that have been drawn and amended since the Communists took power in China last July.

The inquiry by the Commerce department was prompted by a letter written by a crewman of the American freighter E. J. Cloud last August saying that ship was carrying war materials from Japan to Communist China.

Allen's jeep radio snapped again. The tanks were outside Namachon-jin and waiting for the air strike on the town.

"Tell 'em it's on," Robertson advised Allen.

"Tell 'em to look," Huff added.

There was silence for a moment. Then Allen's radio cracked again. But there was interference now and the voice was not clear. Overhead the jets streaked south from the target.

"The 51s say the tanks are on the outskirts of the town," reported Robertson. Allen marked a cross on his map.

Huff was suddenly agitated. "Don't let those airplanes hit that town and those tanks," he ordered. "Call 'em off."

Robertson grinned. "Too much air power." Then he told the 51s to move north and hit another town. The 51s "rogered" their okay.

The way was clear now for the tanks and cavalrymen to move into Namachonjin—another milepost on the Red road to Pyongyang.

NBC and RCA had no immediate comment.

For about a year NBC has been broadcasting some of its commercial programs in RCA color, by way of keeping the public reminded that the RCA method is "comparable with current operations—last. But there was no real defense of Pyongyang."

Correspondent Tom Lambert reported the Americans were led into the Red capital by Lt. Col. Paul Clifford of Franklin, N. H., commander of the second battalion of the cavalry division's fifth regiment.

Lambert said Clifford's column and the South Koreans joined forces at the eastern end of the vehicular bridge.

Under the FCC ruling, NBC can make such demonstrations only in the morning hours or very late at night when most commercial programs are off the air.

The commission also answered an RCA charge that it may have been influenced in selecting Columbia color by biased advice from an FCC engineer who has invented an adapter to enable existing sets to get the CBS color system in black and white.

The commission said the invention, by laboratory Chief Edwin W. Chaplin, assisted by an aide, William K. Roberts, has been turned over to the U. S. government. FCC said the government holds the patent and that no individual could collect royalties from it.

Want a long run for your money?

Better Buy Buick!

You want a new car to be tops in change like style and room and comfort and power — and a thrill-packed fifteen minutes with the nimble number plate. Here will show you it has all these things in abundant measure.

Do you ask us — how about money? What does it cost to buy a Buick — and to own one?

All right — let us ask you again: Take first cost. Do you know that Buick prices have come down at a level below what you'd pay for some sixes — and that every Buick, on a cents-per-pound basis, is a stand-out buy?

Take operating cost. Do you know that the bang you'll get from Buick's Fireball power comes from a valve-in-head engine — recognized by engineers as a thrifty saver of fuel?

Do you know that owners of 1950 Buicks are writing us rave letters, saying that this year's version is the most economical Buick ever built?

Do you know that each comfort feature — coil springs on all four wheels protect the car as well as the passengers — and throw in an extra saving because they need no servicing, and are practically break-proof to boot?

Do you know that Dynaflo? — in addition to keeping you fresh as a daisy on a day-long drive — caps its convenience with savings on tires, cuts down the strain on transmissions and engines — and eliminates all friction clutch repairs, because it hasn't any?

Take final cost. Do you know that the owner of a Buick gets a yen for a later model, the prices that Buicks command on a used-car lot are the ultimate proof of their long-run value?

So if you want a real run for your money, better buy Buick. And the first step is very simple: Go see your Buick dealer — soon — and get an order signed.

*Dynaflo Drive is standard on Roadmaster, Wildcat and Special models.

FOUR-WAY FORWARD — This rugged front end (1) sets the style note, (2) saves on repair cost — steering balls are individually replaceable, (3) avoids "locking horns," (4) makes parking and garaging easier.

at Oglesby PTA

The Oglesby Junior High School PTA met at the school at 3 p. m. Tuesday. The executive board meeting preceded the regular meeting. A discussion of plans for the Halloween carnival was held.

Mrs. O. A. Graves, President, presided during the business session. Mrs. R. L. Broach presented the program using the theme "Birthright of Opportunity to grow to Adulthood in a Good Home."

This program was given in the form of a SCIO drama with James H. Jones, Joe Amour, Mrs. R. E. Jackson, and Mrs. Henry Haynes taking parts.

For the largest percentage of parents present, the prize was awarded to Mrs. R. E. Jackson's Home-room.

Flower School
Begins Wednesday

Mrs. Joe Harding of Grady, conducted the first day of the Flower Show School No. 2, from 10 a. m. to 12 noon, and from 1:15 p. m. to 3:15 p. m. Wednesday. Twenty-eight members registered for the first day.

Mrs. Harding conducted a class on "Horticulture" and her topics for the day were "How To Conduct a Flower Show", "Instructions on Practicing Conservation of Wild Flowers", "How to Transplant", "How to Grow Specimen Materials", and "Disbudding and Point Score Judging."

On Thursday, Mrs. Fulton Murphy of Pine Bluff will talk on "Color Harmony". Mrs. Murphy will demonstrate monochromatic color through flower arrangements employed by the youth of all shades, tints, and tones for her chosen hue. She is a graduate of the Chicago Floral Culture School, and studied under Rudolph Shafer of California, who is one of the nations most outstanding authority on color.

Christmas Tree

The Lilac Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Malcolm Porterfield, with Mrs. A. B. Patton, and Mrs. D. M. Floyd as co-hostesses. The mantel in the living room held a beautiful arrangement of Mexican sunflowers. The halloween motif was carried out in the center arrangement on the dining table of pumpkins, colorful vegetables and grapes.

The president, Mrs. H. C. Whitworth opened the meeting with the Lords prayer. During the business session, the club planned the city Christmas tree, a project of the club this year. Mrs. Mark M. Smith was made an honorary member of the club.

Miss Mable Ethridge was in charge of the program. Mrs. A. E. Slusser gave a report from the State garden club convention held in Hot Springs in June. An interesting talk on "Use of Shrubs in Landscaping" was given by Mrs. D. M. Camp. Mrs. B. L. Rettig gave a talk on "Plans for the Christmas Tree".

Delicious pumpkin pie, and coffee was served by the hostesses to 17 members.

DOROTHY DIX

Wise Mother

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a mother of two girls, one 16 and one 12. From the time they were babies they have always played with boys and girls alike. They have always been free to bring their friends home with them, and as the result, the house has always been full of boys and girls playing games and making candy or amusing themselves in some other innocent way. We also take the children to the movies once a week, and two or three times a year the older girl goes to a dance with her girlfriends. Her father takes her and goes for her, although she has had invitations from boys who wanted to date her, but she doesn't seem to care.

A PUZZLED MOTHER
Taking Right Course
Because you have let your girls play with boys all their lives, you have taken the only way of staying sane from the boy-crazy period that most girls go through and which which they are capable of committing any folly.

Familiarity with boys from their infancy up has robbed them of all romantic glamour. The lads they are not allowed to speak to nor go with are forbidden fruit to other girls; to yours they are just Johnny Jones and Tommy Smith, about whom they have no sentimental illusions.

Furthermore, you show your wisdom in making your home a gathering place for your children's friends, that way you know where they are and what they are doing. You have a chance to get acquainted with the crowd they run with and see if they are the right sort.

Dear Miss Dix: People often wonder why men who know themselves to be philanderers and that they never could settle down to love, do not get married. I am sure you will tell me why. It is because they cannot help themselves. Women (men) to the altar where they would never go of their own accord. A most honest-to-goodness philanderer does not want to marry and he only does it after some woman puts him in a position that forces his hand. My advice to girls is not to "get your man," but to get you. It is this recipe which would drop out of the present unpopularity of marriage.

A PHILANDERER'S ANSWER: These are words of wisdom which women would do well to read to heart, because it is undoubtedly true that in their eagerness to catch husbands women do not consider sufficiently the temper and temperament of the men they are marrying nor whether they are good domestic material, or not. Nor apparently do they note whether the bridegrooms are dragging them to the altar or they are coining them to it.

Unfortunately, women have many artless beliefs about men that experience does not justify. One is that no matter how married a man is about getting off his wedding, that he will be perfectly crazy about being married as soon as the honeymoon is said over him. Another is that marriage is a sure cure for fickleness and that the man who roamed from flower to flower, and chased every petticoat that came his way will settle down to being a one-woman man as soon as he is married. And another faith in which women are strong is that the man who has been lukewarm lover will turn into a devoted husband and that a wife can always win her husband's love, by being in love with him herself and by being patient and kind and a good cook.

If these theories worked out, it would be all right to get your man by hook or crook. But, alas, marriage seldom comes up to a woman's expectations. Never to her pipe dream. The man who doesn't go into marriage under a full head of enthusiasm just peters out into indifference and even dislike when he collides with all the bills and ills of domesticity. The man with a wandering foot still roams, and the man who falls in love with his wife after marriage is still a figure in romantic fiction.

So, ladies, take a philanderer's advice and marry the man who wants you. Men are always better satisfied with a thing they picked out themselves.

Dear Miss Dix: We have in our family one child, a 6-year-old daughter.

Hurricane Spends Self Inland

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 19.—(AP)—High tides tore at Florida beaches and seawalls today, only a few hours after a hurricane ripped the length of the state and fished down to squall size as it edged into Georgia.

Three Floridians died in the blow. Property and crop damage was well up in the millions of dollars.

The force of the storm tapered off steadily from the 116-mile-an-hour punch it handed Miami at Tuesday midnight. Still it was the worst in years for many north and central Florida cities.

Today's battle scene was along the miles of East Coast resort beaches. Navy men and civilian volunteers worked through the night to sandbag seawalls and oceanfront houses.

Angry sea waters already had torn away city docks and two fish houses on India river at Titusville. One section of seawall at Cocoa collapsed. Many roads and bridges were washed out or were under water.

In three south Florida counties—Dade, Brevard and Palm Beach—storm damage was tentatively estimated at $5,000,000 by chief of Storm Forecaster Grady Norton.

He said it would rise as more complete reports came in. Newspaper estimates were as high as $8,000,000 for greater Miami alone.

Florida's big citrus and winter vegetable business was hard hit. Nearly 15,000 acres of early fall vegetables worth more than $2,000,000 were destroyed. Grapefruit losses in the Indian river section were mostly 30 per cent, but as high as 80 per cent in one 7,000-acre section.

Interior citrus was in far better shape since highest winds and rain fanned out on the southeast side of the storm. Highest winds were only 36 miles an hour at Ocala and 38 miles an hour at Gainesville.

Winds at Orlando wrecked a $500,000 hangar at the air base.

The storm dead were Mrs. Owen Adams of West Hollywood and two unidentified Negroes. Mrs. Adams was killed when the hurricane smashed her family's trailer. Her husband and four children were hurt. One of the dead Negroes was found in the wreckage of his home at West Hallandale.

The other jumped from a small boat near Bunnell and drowned in Haw Creek. Apparently he was frightened when high winds churned up the waters and he tried to swim to shore, a county official said.

Daytona Beach and Deland in Volusia county were among the cities reporting their worst damage in many years. Most of it was partial damage to buildings, fallen power lines and trees. High water added to the damage and slowed repair work.

The total will run high because the damage was so general.

In 1827, the American invention of pressing glass—pouring molten glass into a mold, then using a plunger to press it into all parts of the mold—contributed one of the few technical changes in its production since glass blowing was first attempted in the pre-Christian era.

U. S. Likely to Protest Russian Mines

Washington, Oct. 18 (UP) — The United States soon may file a complaint with the United Nations over the use of free-floating, Russian-made mines by the Communists in Korean waters.

A navy spokesman disclosed that all facts in the case were turned over to the state department several days ago. He did not know what state department officials planned to do, but there were indications a protest would be filed shortly.

Free floating mines were outlawed by the Hague convention. Neither Russia nor North Korea signatories to that pact.

Since the Korean war began, three U. S. minesweepers have been sunk and two U. S. destroyers damaged in collisions with mines off the Korean coasts. The combined casualty list stands at 12 dead, 36 missing and 115 injured.

Up to Oct. 11 a total of 413 enemy mines had been sighted with 132 of them destroyed. About half of those destroyed and at least 11 of those still afloat were said to be of the illegal free-floating type.

New York, Oct. 19 — It is hardly possible that W. Averell Harriman, who is now vaguely identified as a "foreign affairs expert on the White House staff" has improved since his term in Moscow. His record justifies no optimism. This man is one of those rich amateurs who let Roosevelt flatter them and exploit the implications of their names. Names such as Rockefeller, Whitney and Marshall Field — and Harriman. Surely these young fellows were of fine old capitalistic stock.

Rockefeller commissioned J. Davidson to go to South America and scout the heads of a group of dictator-presidents at our expense as a gesture of good will. Davidson was listed as chairman of the citizens' committee of the arts, sciences and professions, which paid Jimmy Roosevelt a big salary but which Eleanor finally repudiated in a confidential scene belatedly confessed by Billy Rose, who says he was there. She had learned, to her surprise and sorrow, according to Mr. Rose, that the independent citizens' committee was "the most insidious and dishonest" of all the fronts and dodges to which she had lent her name and support. Mr. Rockefeller paid Davidson your money to mold these mud-heads as a means of endearing us to the pancho and juans to the south of the border and if any other naïve and fatuous fantasy occurs to your imagination don't blab it to the state department lest it cost you more of your taxes.

I have lately been sampling in a book by Maj.-Gen. John R. Deane, who served with more or less under Harriman as head of the U. S. military mission to Moscow from the fall of 1943 until the end of the war. General Deane expresses admiration for Harriman, but the details of his book reflect no reason for this regard in the field of professional competence. It is a story of abjectness in the presence of a bullying enemy temporarily placed in the status of a military accomplice.

After a year of hagglng and evasion by the Russians, General Deane, still unable to meet the Russian chief of staff, "would have welcomed an appointment with a lance corporal." At last, however, he got a foot in the door with Marshal Voroshilov, the vice commissar of defense, to "renew his request for landing and turn-around facilities for American bombers who were softening up Germany for the Normandy invasion to take the pressure off Russia. Did the Russian now smile and crowd him with vodka as before?

"He knew I had come to press for some action on the agreements that had been made 'in principle' regarding a 'shuttle bombing' and other matters," General Deane wrote, "and he assumed a cold, demagogic attitude and went at once on the offensive. He criticized Anglo-American inability to contain more German divisions on the Italian front."

There ensues a capsule condemnation of the Italian campaign as a stupid enterprise and General Deane then comes to his meeting with General Antonov, who presently became chief of staff. "I have never had a reception of more studied coldness," General Deane says. "I explained that the purpose of the military mission was to provide a group through which operational co-ordination could be effected. He seized on this to berate me about our efforts in Italy. I pointed out that we had liquidated Rommel's forces in Africa, forced Italy out of the war, taken on a second front in the Pacific without the help of our great ally and run the gauntlet of the submarine menace to deliver supplies to Russia."

At the same time, Harriman, representing the nation which was flooding Russia with gifts, including post-war industrial plant, "was receiving the same complaints from Molotov, who indicated Stalin's displeasure." In Dec., 1944, General Deane wrote General Marshall that it had been all right to give the Russians all possible help when they were back on their heels. He ignored the fact that they were the enemy's ally until June, 1941, and became our "ally" only because Hitler turned on Stalin. They "deserved" no help whatever from the United States.

"However, General Deane wrote Marshall, 'they are no longer on their heels. The situation has changed but our policy has not. We still meet their requests to the limit of our ability. They meet ours to the minimum that will keep us sweet. We never make a request that is not viewed with suspicion.'"

At Teheran Stalin told Roosevelt he had 60 divisions which he could shift rapidly to break through where he chose.

"But the American officer adds, 'It is impossible to conceive how these divisions could have been moved had they not had American trucks to ride in, American shoes to march in and American food to sustain them.'"

When Harriman and Lord Beaverbrook hit Moscow in September, 1941, to learn Russia's needs, American troops, in the face of Stalin and Molotov, not a day's allies but difficult and shrewd negotiators. They were "given a rough time by Stalin." He questioned their good faith and they hurriedly upped their list of offerings. Then

New York, Oct. 19 —(AP)—So that is what became of the major league's lively ball. The nation's college football teams are using it now. At least there doesn't appear to be any other reason for this corner making 12 of last week's 68 decisions.

Steve Owen of the New York football Giants, says the ball in use now "must be made of the hide of a greased pig turned loose at an Oklahoma county fair."

Last week's .824 average lifted this corner's season's mark to .777.

Here are this week's picks: Army vs Harvard: There's nothing in the papers dealing with the return of either David or Goliath. The nation's No. 1 team to stay No. 1 army.

Oklahoma vs Kansas State: After three strenuous non-conference games, the Sooner start belting their league brothers. Oklahoma.

Southern Methodist vs Rice: A year ago Rice took this one, 41-27. But this time the Mustangs are determined to go all the way. Southern Methodist.

Kentucky vs Villanova: Kentucky has been scored upon but once this season. Its offense also is one of the best. Kentucky.

Notre Dame vs Indiana: The odds-makers rate the Irish as seven points better than Indiana. Why start an argument? Notre Dame.

Ohio State vs Minnesota: One of these days that Minnesota to a football catch fire and trample a heavy favorite. Maybe it will be Saturday, but the record points to the Buckeyes. Ohio State.

Maryland vs North Carolina State: It's Maryland's homecoming and in Jack Scarbath, Maryland has one of the better young quarterbacks. That's enough. Maryland.

Stanford vs UCLA: Stanford has just enough edge to overcome the home field advantage which will be riding with the Bruins. Stanford.

Georgia vs LSU: Too many crumbles and injuries on the Tiger roster. Georgia.

Illinois vs Washington: The unbeaten west coast team will find that Johnny Karris is a ground-galling machine. Illinois.

Cornell vs Yale: Cornell stayed unbeaten while fumbling 13 times in the Big Red's first three games. Yale also is unbeaten but won't stay that way now that Cornell is clicking. Cornell.

Michigan vs Wisconsin: The Badgers have won three straight games with a minimum of offense. The home team ends against Michigan. Michigan.

Tennessee vs Alabama: A touch-down should decide. Tennessee.

Texas A & M vs Texas Christian: The Aggies' offense appears to be a bit California. Texas A & M.

Southern California vs Navy: Who can remember the last time that Southern California didn't score a victory in its first three games? The drought ends here. Southern California.

The rest in a hurry: Saturday: Midwest: Drake over Wichita; Kansas over Oklahoma A & M; Missouri over Iowa State, Nebraska over Penn State, Toledo over Bradley, Tulsa over Detroit.

Southeast: Texas over Arkansas.

Stalin beamed and Harriman and Beaverbrook got the usual Kremlin banquet.

Roosevelt, in the same cringing spirit gave the Russians priority over all other allies' and even over our own fighters. This was "the beginning of a policy of appeasement from which we have never fully recovered and from which we are still suffering."

Yet, the Soviet leaders became "more and more demanding. The fire in our neighbor's house a Roosevelt metaphor) had been extinguished and we had submitted ourselves to his direction in helping to extinguish it. We assumed that we would continue to submit ourselves to his direction in helping to rebuild the house. Unfortunately, we did. He demanded that we furnish the material for the inside, the exact use of which we were not allowed to see. Now that the house is finished we have at best only a nodding acquaintance."

General Deane's recollection of meek failure to stand up to the Russians, of the squandering of American billions and the shipment of post-war plant to build up a power already so plainly hostile to the United States is a frightful indictment of the whole crew, with slight extenuation of his own inactivity. In the face of this record, Harriman remains one of the masters of the nation, entrusted with power and influence to repeat his tragic failure wherever else his judgement might be exerted on our fate.

Bobcats Host to Texarkana Here Friday

The Arkansas Razorbacks of Texarkana come to Hope Friday night for conference contest with Bobcats at Hammond Stadium at 8 o'clock.

The boys from across the river are moaning the blues about the big and experienced Hope team and about being outweighed some 20 pounds per man.

True Texarkana will be outweighed according to figures from both schools but the margin will be only 7 pounds per man. Hope averages 168 pounds to 161 for Texarkana.

Louis Signs to Meet Cesar Brion

Chicago, Oct. 19 —(AP)—Argentinian Cesar Brion is the "fat" road block for former heavyweight champion Joe Louis in his projected shuffle up the long trail back to the top of fighting.

Formally, the Joe Louis will pose at Chicago stadium Nov. 21 as the one asset, youth, which apparently weighed as a victory against Louis when he was knocked out by Charles at New York Sept. 27.

Charles at New York Sept. 27. Louis, however, is confident he can brush by the 35-year-old Brion, winner of 31 bouts against three defeats. Then he hopes to whip probably Lee Oma and Rocky Marciano and then square things with Charles next June.

Cyclone Leaves Many Homeless

HOPE, Fla., Oct. 18 (AP)—One of the worst hurricanes in the history of the United States was known dead, hundreds of others were injured, and thousands of homes were left homeless today, according to reports from the south.

The storm, which was estimated at $3,000,000 in damage, was a powerful force as it moved over land, moved on to the central Florida citrus belt, leaving destruction in its wake.

At least 125,000 people were hit by the storm, and in those towns it passed through, many homes were destroyed, many homes were damaged, and an undetermined number of persons injured.

Owen Adams was killed at Hope, Fla., when the winds smashed her trailer. Her husband, Owen, was critically injured and their three children were injured.

LEANA broke off her reading of Miss Maggie's will at a strangled cry from Sonda, then continued reading: "To my nephew, Peter."

Leana's eyes flew ahead, taking in Miss Maggie's spidery handwriting. Her voice was unsteady as she read: "In view of his wandering affections and his penchant for getting into trouble, I leave my collection of certain canceled checks, identifiable by their endorsements. In addition to this, Peter will receive the sum of $5,000."

"Read on, child," Miss Maggie instructed when Leana paused, shocked speechless by what she saw.

Leana shook her head. "I'd rather not, Miss Maggie."

"It doesn't matter. The will is as unexpected as was Miss Maggie's suddenly careless chuckle. 'I hope you enjoy living at Thorne Hill, Leana. Perhaps your father can do that book he will have a hundred thousand dollars.'"

"You mean," Peter Thorne croaked, his Oxford accent suddenly forgotten, "Rog gets a hundred grand?"

Miss Maggie nodded briskly, her eyes bluer, rounder, more like ice than ever as they pinned her nephew on the bars of her dislike. "I mean exactly that, Peter," she snapped. "It's my money, isn't it? I can do with it what I like."

"You can't leave it to Roger!"

THERE was more than greed in Jasper Thorne's tenseness. There was desperation—a desperation that was dreadful to see as it spread over the pinched-in cheeks and the thin, tight mouth, and made his eyes look like a weasel's.

"Certainly not," said Sonda coldly. "Aunt Maggie, that would be an insane thing to do—cut off your own brother's sons that way. Besides, what of Aunt Agatha?"

"Aggie knows all about it. She has her own money."

"Not," was Sonda's frigid reminder, "a hundred thousand dollars."

"We'll let Agatha worry about that, Sonda," Miss Maggie said quietly. "If you don't mind."

Sonda Thorne gave an unladylike snort, but held her tongue.

Peter did not. "Well, Jap, old man, I should think you could have looked out after our joint interests better than to have let Cousin Leana move in so completely."

Jasper looked at the floor, then at Leana. His dark face had gone as pale as the curtains that were creamy-white in the soft light from the lamp at Miss Maggie's elbow.

Then, without a word, he bolted. The door, slamming after him, jiggled the doorknob on the corner what-not.

Afterwards Leana collected bits of common sense which had been so thoroughly routed by the scene following Jasper's departure. She hadn't been upset so much by Sonda's unleashed hatred as by the cautious, calculating look that took possession of Peter Thorne's enigmatic eyes. Or perhaps it had been a combination of those reactions, coupled with Miss Maggie's obvious delight at shattering their dreams of inheriting the Thorne fortune.

The Thorne fortune wasn't nearly so impressive as it once had been. There had been too much dipping into the reserve and of nearly enough replenishing it. It had been going on for decades.

The Thorne—the ones now living—were parasites, Miss Maggie had flung at Peter and Sonda, and the battle had flared anew.

The tiny buzzer buzzed. It was 9 o'clock, Miss Maggie's bedtime. Leana hurried down the hall.

Miss Maggie's door was closed and the old lady called out for her to come in through Agatha's room and the bath that connected them.

"Sister has the jitters," Miss Aggie announced when Leana entered her room. Turning over in bed, she proceeded to beat her into her pillow. "She thinks she shouldn't have told them. I told her not to. That Peter—she stopped, her eyes widening. 'Leana, lock my door, too!'"

Obediently, Leana went back and turned the massive old key. "Now don't worry," she soothed. Miss Aggie just looked at her with wide, scared eyes and Leana hurried through the sisters' bath into Miss Maggie's bedroom.

MARGARET THORNE looked very regal despite her five feet one and a half inches as she came into the bedroom from the study beyond it. Leana gave her a reassuring smile.

"Shall I get you a glass of milk before bed?"

It was a stock question, asked every night. Sometimes Miss Maggie agreed; this time she did not.

"No, child. Tonight I—I don't want to sleep. I—I want her colorless lips. 'Leana, I want you to go after the sheriff.'"

"Why?" Then, "Why not telephone him?"

Genuine terror flashed in Miss Maggie's eyes, but her voice was steady.

"No. No, they might hear."

"Who?"

"I—Well, Peter," the old woman admitted. "Or Jasper."

"They wouldn't."

More Opposition to Amendment Is Sounded

By The Associated Press

A state board and a city council have come out against proposed constitutional amendment No. 41 which would pledge first state revenues for school purposes.

The public welfare board adopted a resolution opposing the amendment on ground that it would cut deeply into available welfare funds.

And the Pine Bluff city council expressed its opposition on ground that the proposal would handicap city and county governmental operation.

The proposed amendment, to be voted on at the November general election, would earmark a minimum of $6 per month from the general revenue fund for each person of school age.

New Agency Tackles Prices, Wages

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—A powerful new police agency over prices and wages today tackled a series of problems affecting Americans' pocketbooks and pantry shelves.

The economic stabilization agency (ESA) came officially into existence yesterday when Alan Valentine took the oath as administrator. A few hours later, another mobilization agency said it will act shortly to curtail use of rubber.

Valentine's problems were:

1. Assembling a staff. He told reporters he wants a "small but first-rate group of people" to begin with. So far, the ESA consists of Valentine, Cyrus S. Chang, chairman of the new wage stabilization board (WSB), and a handful of office helpers. Valentine and Chang met for the first time at yesterday's ceremony.

2. Seeking to preserve stabilization by voluntary means. Valentine said the country is a "very, very grave crisis" and is "dangerously near the point at which the stabilization of the economy is threatened by inflation."

3. Advising President Truman on whether, and when, ceilings should be clamped on any prices and wages. Valentine said he is "proceeding on assumptions" as to whether ceilings will be needed. He said he would agree in principle with the view that it is desirable to avoid direct controls as long as possible.

4. Administering price and wage controls were necessary.
5. Calling labor-management conferences, whenever Valentine thinks it desirable, and working out arrangements for the settlement of labor disputes in defense activities.

The announcement that sharper curbs on rubber usage by tire and other manufacturers will be issued shortly came from the national production authority (NPA). Administrator William H. Harrison said the order will limit the total amount of natural rubber consumed

Two More U. S. Ships Sunk by Mines

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—Two more navy vessels, the minesweeper Pirate and Pledge, have been sunk by mines in Korean waters.

Announcing this yesterday, the navy placed the toll at one dead, 12 missing and 79 injured. That brought total announced casualties due to mine explosions to 12 dead, 36 missing and 96 injured.

The navy said the pirate and the pledge were sunk Oct. 12 off Wonsan, North Korean port recently captured by South Korean forces. The navy previously had announced that the destroyers Brush and Mansfield were damaged by mines in late September and the minesweeper Magpie sunk Oct. 1.

The pirate had 39 injured and six missing; the pledge suffered one dead, six missing and 40 injured.

The navy said the two 185-foot vessels struck separate mines about six minutes apart while cleaning mines off Wonsan. Two other minesweepers picked up survivors under fire from enemy shore batteries.

There was no indication what type of mines sunk the two craft. The navy has said many floating mines of Russian in a culture have been found off Korea.
